to class discussions through comments, questions, criticisms, and analysis of the assigned readings. In assigning grades, quality of participation will take precedence over quantity of participation (hence, the student who participates frequently but without giving much thought to his/her comments/questions is not at an advantage compared to the student who offers occasional but insightful analysis and questions).

Final letter grades will be assigned expulsion from the University. I encourage you to view official University policy on matters of academic integrity at: <http://www.slu.edu/x12657.xml>
